ST. PETER
LUTHERAN CHURCH
DUBUQUE, IOWA

From Pr. Matt & Pr. Nichole

We had an amazing trip to New Orleans for the 2024 ELCA Youth Gathering! We started out with another pivot on our transportation as the 12 passenger vans we were expecting were not available when we were to pick them up, but we made it to New Orleans anyway!

We stopped along the way at Graceland for a quick photo opp (you may have seen that on Facebook.)

In New Orleans each night, we experienced mass gatherings where the house band led us in fabulous music and we heard speakers sharing about their ministry accompanying those experiencing homelessness, how when we are going through hard times we keep going anyways, and how we are created to for a purpose and we are not a mistake. We were able to be in this with 16,000+ people worshipping and learning together.

We had days in the Interactive Learning Center where we learned about different organizations that the ELCA partners with around the world.

On Accompaniment Day, our young people learned about community organizing. You will see pictures of us in our Orange shirts. We got there early so Pastor Matt was having a teaching moment, and 2 of our youth got up and shared their "I am" poems they wrote.

Orange shirts

Purple shirts

The pictures of us in the Purple shirts was our Synod day. We had worship with other people from Region 5 including the other Iowa Synods.

We also participated in a scavenger hunt around the city. That is where you will see us dressed up in the fun local costumes. That day we also went on a River Cruise lunch with the Northeastern Iowa Synod people, where we had some good local food and toured a local battle site.

With 16,000+ people we had to make sure to stay together, you will see that we brought with us a fun conversation starter in the form of a stuffed alpaca head.

And in that sea of people, we were delighted to run into Pastor Lily while we were leaving the mass gathering on the first night!

We had a great trip and we look forward to attending the 2027 Gathering in Minneapolis, Minnesota!!

From Our Council President

I want to share with you what I am currently reading. It is "To Be Made Well, An Invitation to Wholeness, Healing and Hope" by Amy Julia Becker. The author describes some major health issues she experienced growing up, and references Scripture, to walk the reader through her healing process into her current life experiences. She specifically refers to the passage from Mark 5: 21-43, which we read a few weeks ago at church. It is about the Synagogue ruler, Jairus, whose daughter was dying, and the woman who suffered from bleeding for 12 years.

It is a great read and focuses on how Jesus dealt with both these individuals to help them heal and how God helps us heal during our life journey. I suggest you read it. There are a couple of copies in our Library at church.

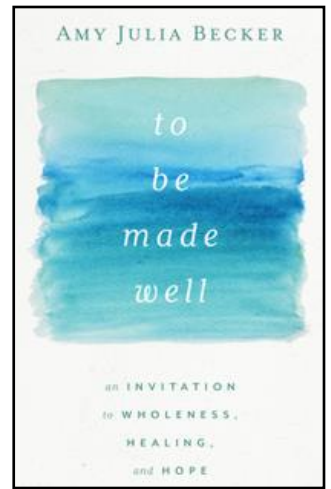

By now, our youth and adult members are back from the Youth Gathering in New Orleans.

I am confident that they had a very meaningful Christian experience with thousands of other youths. I am grateful that our congregation has been financially supportive, not only this specific trip, but supportive of our overall youth program at St. Peter. I am anxious to hear how they enjoyed the experience.

Thanks to all who have helped at church over the past few weeks, to cover for vacations and time away from the office. And thank you all for the continued financial support for our mission at St. Peter.

Try and be open to what He has in store for you.

Doug Horstmann, President of the Congregational Council

A DREAM LIVES ON

Gwen's Pantry was a dream of Gwen Sayler, the previous director of our Evangelical Outreach Board. Sadly, Gwen passed in 2019, before her dream became a reality.

But her Board continued to work on the dream, and in August of 2020, we dedicated "Gwen's Pantry" outside of St. Peter, with a socially-distanced cream party to celebrate.

It is our way of helping those in our community who are in need.

The Pantry itself was crafted by Richard Hyman, and has shelves to hold all sorts of personal hygiene products. It was part of Gwen's dream, that the members of St. Peter would continue to keep the Pantry stocked with these much needed, and often overlooked, personal care items. This is where you come in!

Rev. Dr. Gwen Sayler

Four years have passed, and Gwen's Pantry continues to have new visitors every week. Having this pantry available 24-7 makes it easy for people to find what they need, when they might need it, with no judgement.

We need you, the St. Peter congregation, to continue to help keep the Pantry stocked year-round, and thus keep Gwen's dream alive. There are flyers by our Blue collection bin in the front hall, with a list of our most needed items. (also below)

We hope you will consider how you may help fill the bin, and the pantry!

Thank you for all you do to make a difference to others—it is appreciated more than you know.

Questions? Please contact Cindy Widmar, Director, Evangelical Outreach Board

*Thank you Linda Sorensen, for your generous donation, via Thrivent, to Gwen's Pantry in July 2024!

Ever wonder how our past Growing Hope projects are doing?

Here is an update on the Peru Castrovirreyna Program that we sponsored for three years:

TAKING DAIRY FARMING TO THE NEXT LEVEL

“We live off our cheeses, our animals and our crops, and you are teaching us to make a solid business out of what we do,” said Teresa. She’s one of the dairy farmers involved in the latest phase of the Peru Castrovirreyna program, which is taking place in an area called Cocas.

The focus is on improving dairy cow management & boosting the quality of milk & cheeses. The goal is to increase income & reduce anemia & malnutrition among the most vulnerable household members: children & new mothers. Geographically, Cocas is favorable to agricultural production, but malnutrition is still a challenge for many families who lack information about the correct balance of foods and the importance of iron and protein.

Families consume approximately 80% of the crops and 60% of the livestock they grow. The remainder are sold to provide for other needs. Families base their meals on cheese, milk, beans, bell peppers, corn, wheat, and potatoes. Staples like rice, lentils, sugar and oil are either provided by the state or purchased with earnings from the sale of excess production.

When activities first began, a farmer named Espiritu said, “Now we can take advantage of the presence of professionals. With everything they are going to teach us and all their support, we plan to improve our practices so that our families are better off.” Ramiro, another participant, says, “We’ve started putting into practice what they teach us. Our cheeses must be improved. When they are, Cocas will stand out because of our quality products.”

One of the ways producers can improve the value of their goods is by managing their animals in a safe and healthy way and through good food-handling, personal-hygiene and home-hygiene practices. Once all this is achieved, greater income will make it easier for families to gain access to food of higher quality and richer dietary variety. The hygiene practices will also result in better health outcomes for family members.

Ricardo speaks for all as he says, “Our families are going to change the way we live and take care of our livestock to produce more milk and make higher-quality cheese for sale. We are very grateful.”
